

PREFACE TO PRESENT EDITION.

WE have been induced to publish the DIRECTORY of 1789, in a separate form, for the purpose of preserving it from the oblivion to which it was fast hastening—as only two copies of the original work are to be found remaining. We are indebted to MR. D. C. COLESWORTHY, Bookseller, No. 54 Cornhill, for the copy from which the present edition is taken. This has been inserted in the BOSTON DIRECTORY of 1852-3, and adds to it considerable interest.

At the earnest request of parties desirous of preserving the first Directory published in Boston, we also give it in the original form. Although a few names of persons, residing in Boston at the time of its publication, are found to have been omitted, yet the antiquity of the work will render it desirable; and the curiosity of the present generation to see something to remind them of their worthy predecessors, will be satisfied in a degree by perusing and preserving it.

Published and for sale by GEORGE ADAMS, at the Office of the Boston Directory, 91 Washington Street.
